PRICE, FIVE CENTS

Ump's Decision Riles Brookline Players

Dugouts Cleared in 6th Inning of Bitterly Contested Game

NARBERTH WON 5 TO 2

By JOHN MULLIGAN
Memories of yesteryear!

In one of the most bitter-fought games seen on a local diamond in recent years, Narberth upset Brookline, Main Line League leader, by 5-2 figures at the Borough Playground Saturday before a large gathering.

Today the rabid fans are comparing the contest with those of the days when the circuit was in its infancy, when every game was fought over as if it were more important than anything in the whole universe. And it is very likely that there will be much comment on it for days to come, since everybody on the premises, including the scribes, came in for their share of trouble before play could be resumed after a sudden halt in a rip-snorting sixth inning.

Now everybody was aware of the fact that Brookline came here at the top rung of the loop ladder and meant to stay in that position. But if Nunan was determined, Gene Davis also had his ideas, and even though our town has the first half sewed up and is sure of a place in the series, Davis means to make the club which wins the second-half fight every inch of the way for it, and soon impressed this on Brookline.

In the sixth inning, with the score 5-2 in the ultimate winner's favor, some of the Brookline players took offense when Umpire Coffey made a decision on a certain pitch. In less than a minute the home plate looked and sounded like a hornet's nest with the buzzing of angry voices. In other words, the decisions of Coffey didn't blend with the public's opinion of

Dr. Tily Enthusiastically Received as Conductor

An enthusiastic reception was accorded Dr. Herbert J. Tily, of Cynwyd, guest conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra at Robin Hood Dell last Friday night for the first half of the program, which contained three of his own compositions.

His "Christmas Morn," a composition in overture form, was conducted with much spirit and received the most applause of any composition played during the evening. Other numbers conducted by Dr. Tily were Weber's "Jubel Overture," an orchestral transcription of Haydn's variations on the "Austrian Hymn," and his own "Te Deum Laudamus."

Dr. Tily was recalled many times following the completion of the first half of the program and finally announced that Mr. Smallens would conduct a trifle he had composed many years ago. This proved to be a delightful number, "The Betrothal," composed in honor of the engagement of Dr. Tily's daughter.

Only One New Case of Paralysis Reported in Boro

One new case of infantile paralysis was reported in Narberth during the past week. Mary Young, eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Alonzo Young, of 410 Grove place, was taken ill last Thursday following her return from Cape May. She has responded well to treatment and her condition is considered very satisfactory.

The only other case of the disease in the Borough, James Brannen, 8 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Brannen, of 227 Price avenue, is reported to be doing fine. He is expected home from the Graduate Hospital this Friday.

John Nash Seriously Ill

John C. Nash, of 80 Wynnedale avenue, Narberth, is seriously ill in the Bryn Mawr Hospital. He was operated on for appendicitis late Monday afternoon after being taken sick suddenly that morning. The operation was successful, but complications set in which have put him in a serious condition. Hospital authorities state that he is doing as well as could be expected, and do not anticipate any change in his condition for a few days.

Baseball Schedule
Saturday — Jack Hart's Vets at home (Main Line League).
Monday — Berwyn at home (Main Line League).
Wednesday — Wayne Hawks at home.

Bridge Club Plan Outing; Announce Tourney Winners

The Narberth Men's Bridge Club will hold an outing this Friday evening at the Hotel Washington, Somerton, Pa., which is under the management of Caryl Starr, formerly of Merion avenue, Narberth. Dr. George A. Sloan is chairman of arrangements. Four or five tables are expected.

At Monday night's open duplicate tournament the winners were E. C. Griswold and Bennett, n. and s.; and H. W. Herling and Alfred Peeny, e. and w. The Women's Division held no meeting Tuesday on account of absence of members.

Narberth Juniors Win Playground Crown

Defeat Narberth Collegians for Baseball Championship Last Friday

KANE STRIKES OUT 14

Last Friday afternoon the Narberth Juniors won the championship of the Borough's Playground League by defeating the Narberth Collegians. The score was 3 to 1.

"Sixie" Kane hurled fine ball for the champs, fanning fourteen opposing batsmen and allowing but four hits. Joe O'Connor, pitching for the Collegians, had six strikeouts to his credit and, although he allowed the Juniors seven hits, he received good support. Neither twirler was in much trouble at any part of the contest, although the bases were loaded against Kane in the second inning.

Keim led the attack at bat for the Juniors with two hits, one of which was a homer, while Ray Stanley had a pair of hits for the Collegians.

Next Monday the newly-crowned champions will play the Narberth Sea Food team at the Playground. The Sea Fooders are composed of several members of the Narberth Nationals.

Ardmore Bargain Counter is Rummage Receiving Station

The Ardmore Bargain Counter, now located in what was once the famous tap room of the historic Red Lion Inn, Lancaster avenue, Ardmore, was designated as the official rummage receiving station of the Main Line Federation of Churches this week.

Two rummage sales, formerly held every year by the Federation, will now be supplanted by the Ardmore Bargain Counter. Directors of the Counter request that articles sent in previous years for the Federation rummage sales be forwarded direct to the Red Lion Inn.

They stressed the importance of supporting the work at this time due to the opening of schools and the increased demands for children's clothing. The Inn will be open every morning for the receipt of articles and Thursday, Friday and Saturday for bargain sales.

Merchants Urge Full Parking Privileges for Shoppers in Narberth Business Section

Full and free use of Narberth's business section for parking of shoppers' cars is desired by the Borough's business people. That was the sentiment of a special meeting of the Narberth Business Council held in the Arcadia Restaurant 1.30 P. M. Monday.

The meeting was called in order that a complete expression of opinion of the business people might be transmitted through the group's Executive Board at the next Borough Council meeting. The matter of parking is brought to a head by the opening of Haverford avenue's extension, from Wynnewood avenue to Essex avenue, which is expected to increase trade and traffic in the Borough.

Of the nearly twenty business men who attended the meeting, nearly all expressed approval of these proposals:

1. Motorists shopping in Narberth's business section should be permitted at least the present hour's time to park their cars, on Haverford avenue, and Essex and Forest avenues, between Haverford and Windsor avenue.

2. On Narberth avenue, two-hour parking in afternoons should be permitted to aid theatre-goers attending matinees. (No restrictions are made on evening parking.)

3. Space provided behind the Narberth National Bank, off the new part of Haverford avenue, is available without charge to Narberth shoppers, by arrangement of the Borough Council and the Business Council, which is to pay a nominal fee for use of the ground.

4. While every courtesy is being extended and will be given shoppers who overstay the one-hour limit for street parking, proprietors and employees of all business houses in the district are not to park their own cars in the section at all; and are to park trucks only long enough to load and unload. The business people agree to this in order that as much space as possible may be made available for shoppers.

Among those who spoke in favor of one or all of these points of agreement were Howard P. Cotter, Joseph J. Whiteside, George M. Dando, Hyman Ricklin and J. L. McCrery.

Ralph S. Dunne, who presided, entertained a motion by Marios Chios that the first session of the new season be held in the form of an evening dinner meeting, at Esham Manor Inn.

Registration of New Pupils Mon. and Tues.

Principal and Secretary to be at School Office From 2 to 4.30 P. M.

SCHOOL STARTS THE 7TH

Registration of new pupils at the Narberth Public School will be conducted on Monday and Tuesday, August 29 and 30. Principal W. James Drennen and Miss Fratantoni, the secretary, will be at the school office both days from 2 to 4.30 P. M. to take care of new pupils.

Pupils desiring to enter the Kindergarten must be five years of age on or before February 15, 1933, and pupils desiring to enter the First Grade must be six on or before February 15, 1933.

No pupils will be enrolled without presenting vaccination certificates and birth certificates or any other evidence of date of birth either on insurance policy, baby book, etc.

The enrollment of new pupils in grades one to eight, inclusive, will also take place on Monday and Tuesday.

School will open on Wednesday, September 7, with a half-day session, with full day sessions thereafter.

The painting of the school building is being completed and everything is in readiness for the start of the school year.

Oil Stove Explodes

The explosion of an oil stove in the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Theresa Capelli, Summitt road, Penn Valley, Tuesday, caused flames which were extinguished by the Narberth Fire Company. Mrs. Capelli, who was preparing breakfast, carried her 11-months-old son, Dominick, to safety.

Scientific Details of Solar Eclipse Due Aug. 31 Simplified by Main Line Astronomer

With a view to explaining the various scientific details in terms simple enough to be understood by "the man in the street," Henry B. Rumrill, of Berwyn, president of the Rittenhouse Astronomical Society, has contributed the following article dealing with the solar eclipse which will occur August 31.

Mr. Rumrill's contribution explains the many phases of this phenomenon in simple, everyday language which reduces its intricacies to a minimum. It should be read with a great deal of interest by expert and layman alike.

"The occurrence of an eclipse of the Sun, August 31, has possibly aroused more interest than any preceding event of its kind. Its predecessor in the eastern part of the United States—that of January 24, 1925—was notable in this respect, but its occurrence in the depth of winter doubtless chilled the ardor of many, and the writer will never forget the experience of observing at a temperature of twenty degrees below zero, in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; nor how rapidly the crowd disappeared from the heights of South College Hill when totality was over.

"But the coming eclipse will not be attended by any such discomfort, and will probably be observed by hundreds of thousands within the path of totality, and by many millions outside of it.

"In addition to the information on the subject which has appeared in the press recently, there has unfortunately been some misinformation which ought to be corrected; as, for instance, the statement in a leading daily that solar eclipses occur every 360 years.

"Let us first understand the nature of the phenomenon known as an

Football Practice Starts Monday at Lower Merion

Football practice for both Lower Merion Junior and Senior High Schools will open on Monday. Coach Charles R. (Dick) Mattis, of the Junior High, issued a call for candidates to appear on Pennypacker Field for the initial practice Monday morning at 9.30.

While official practice for the Senior High squad will not commence until Thursday, September 1, on Pennypacker Field, informal practice will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday on the Ardmore avenue playground, it was announced yesterday by Coach Albert C. Adam.

Boro Nine Rings Up 3 Twilight Victories

Manoa Downed Twice, Once by Forfeit; Detroit Clowns Other Victim

FANS GET MANY LAUGHS

By JOHN MULLIGAN
Gene Davis' Boroughites snared three wins during the week, one being played on a foreign field. The first, played with Manoa, was presented to them on a 9-0 forfeit by Umpire Leo Dillon in the sixth inning Monday when Lew Butler's men protested a decision at second base and were reluctant about returning to their positions to resume play.

Followed a benefit game with the same club Tuesday night, which the homesters copped, 4-3, and then a game with the Detroit Clowns on Wednesday, which was racked up to the tune of 3-2 in seven innings.

Howard Graham hurled the first, Charley Townsend, former Narberth pitcher and present Bryn Mawr ace, chucked the second, and Jimmy Noblitt, another Choctaw, toed the slab against the colorful Clown aggregation.

At the time of the Manoa protest, Narberth was training 4-2, but put two men on base, namely, Joel Rubincam and Dick Gallagher. The latter attempted to pilfer the keystone sack and was ruled safe, which brought loud squawks from the Manoa bench and ended play for the night.

Barney Slaughter ended the game against the strong Detroit aggregation by slapping a double after Bob Giltillan had poked a single, and Gilly raced all the way around the bases when Outfielder Cy Malis apparently misjudged the high fly and allowed it to roll past him.

Incidentally Slaughter saved the second Manoa game with a shoe-string catch in the last inning with one man on the bases, and led his team at bat in the Clown game with two doubles.

Buster Kinney, dressed in a clown suit, and Cy Malis, treated the crowd to a lot of laughs during the game with a number of comic acts. In the first inning the visiting first sacker socked a single and ran to third base. Then in the third he and Malis pulled the fishing act in an imaginary boat, upset the boat, and swam across the diamond as the capacity crowd roared its appreciation.

Then in the sixth the two talented players got together out behind the

Penn Valley Garden Club to Exhibit at Shore Show

Members of the Penn Valley Garden Club will attend and enter an exhibit in the Atlantic City Flower Show to be held September 3d to 10th. It was decided at a meeting of the club on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Arthur Goldsmith, Montgomery avenue, Wynnewood. Miss Florence Berterman, a member of the club and a landscape expert, spoke at the meeting on the care of Fall flowers.

Cecile (Babe) Bowes, of the Cynwyd Club, holder of Philadelphia and District girls' junior title, will compete in the Girls' National tennis championships, to be held at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, beginning Labor Day.

Suits Are Filed to Collect Merion Claims

Court Action Resorted to by Legal Representatives of Banking Dept.

MANY IN PREPARATION

Four suits in assumpsit to collect on claims for amounts due the Merion Title and Trust Company were filed in the Montgomery County Court at Norristown within the past week by legal representatives of the State Banking Department.

Defendants in the individual suits are Samuel Dubin, John D. Scheuer, Julia L. Leitch and B. Basler.

Three similar suits were filed during the week ending Wednesday, August 17. Individual defendants in these suits are Gwynn Shepperd, C. H. Vaughan and Louise Holcombe Boyd.

At previous dates suits of a like character have been filed since June 26, 1932. It is understood that the number of suits to be instigated by Dr. William D. Gordon, as secretary of the State Banking Department, may exceed a hundred cases.

Aaron B. Swartz, Jr., of Norristown, and Desmond J. McTighe, of Narberth, are Montgomery County representatives for the State Banking Department.

Many of these suits are actions arising from promissory notes, collateral, loans, mortgages and other legal claims on individuals or groups of individuals.

Suits in assumpsit constitute an action to recover damages for a breach or non-performance of a contract or promise, express or implied, oral or in writing not under seal.

According to county legal representatives of the State Banking Department other suits are in preparation and will be filed within the next few weeks.

Registry Assessors to Sit September 6 and 7

Opportunity will be given Narberth's non-registered voters to qualify for the November election, when the Borough's registry assessors will sit at the polling places September 6 and 7. Urged to register are those residents who have not yet voted here, and those who have made Narberth their home for the necessary sixty days.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, September 6th and 7th, the following registry assessors will register voters between the hours of 11 A. M. and 4 P. M., and 7 and 10 P. M., daylight saving time: Mrs. Horace Murray, Legion room of the Community Building, Windsor avenue, near Conway; Mrs. Mary M. Livingston, Boy Scout House, south side of the Narberth Station; and Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, Elm Hall, Forest avenue.

Residents of their districts may communicate with these three, not only to register, but to ascertain whether they are correctly enrolled.

Hear of Bathing Styles

A speech on the evolution of styles in bathing suits featured the program Tuesday of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. Harold W. Warren, representative of a firm manufacturing bathing suits, was the speaker.

Mr. Warren traced the evolution of the woolen swimming accessory from the "gay nineties" to today's styles, and gave his audience a complete picture of the manufacturing methods involved. Barclay L. Jones was chairman of the meeting.

N. Y. Girl Succumbs

Charlotte Patricia Fenner, 11 years, of Westfield, N. Y., died Monday in Bryn Mawr Hospital of infantile paralysis. She was taken ill while visiting her aunt, Mrs. Carl White, at 252 Henley road, Penn Wynne, and succumbed 24 hours after the disease was discovered. The child formerly lived in Wynnewood with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Fenner.

George R. Warner, son of Seymour G. Warner, of 120 Edgewood road, Ardmore, is among those who qualified to enter Union College this fall as a member of the Class of 1936. Warner will take the general arts course leading to the Bachelor of Arts degree.

Selling Safety

The campaign being inaugurated by the Main Line Kiwanis Club, backed by the civic and service organizations of the section, to reduce materially the injuries and fatalities resulting from automobile accidents, merits the whole-hearted support of every thoughtful resident.

The callousness and inertia with which we Americans regard the ever mounting toll of human life snuffed out by motor vehicle accidents, (there were nearly 55,000 deaths from this cause in the country last year) is little short of shameless.

An organization which has been collecting statistics on the subject points out that 50,510 members of the A. E. F. were killed in action and died as the result of wounds during 18 months of the World War while in the 18 months ending December 31, 1931, 53,650 men, women and children were killed in automobile accidents in the United States.

It may be surprising but it is a fact that 95 per cent of the automobiles involved in accidents resulting in injuries or deaths were apparently in good condition. In other words, the human element is responsible for 95 per cent of such accidents and only 5 per cent can be blamed on defective mechanical equipment.

On this subject Benjamin Eynon, former Commissioner of Motor Vehicles of the State of Pennsylvania, has the following to say: "Even granting that a comparatively small percentage of automobile accidents are the result of mechanical safety imperfections, if we are able to start the driver thinking about his own and other people's safety along these lines (mechanical) we may be able to bring him to the realization of the humanitarian aspect of the situation which is fast becoming serious."

The annual economic loss due to auto accidents amounts, it has been calculated, to the staggering sum of $2,500,000,000 which exceeds the annual cost of public school education in the United States by $300,000,000.

The fundamental prerequisite to a reduction in the loss of life and limb and the damage to property from automobile accidents is the realization and exercise of personal responsibility by those using the streets and highways.

The frequency with which automobile accidents occur at locations presumably under control is not so much a criticism of the control as an indication of the futility of all regulation unless there be a sense of personal responsibility in the driver of a motor vehicle.

Carelessness in the use of streets and highways on so widespread a scale will cease when people begin to exercise the restraint that comes with an appreciation and exercise of personal responsibility.

To quote Mr. Eynon's statement again: "Traffic safety is 95 per cent education and 5 per cent enforcement. Our biggest problem is in the education of automobile owners and drivers. When they can be reached en masse, the complexities of the problem are proportionately reduced, and when we are able to sell the idea of safety to a sufficiently large percentage of motorists, then we will begin to notice an appreciable decrease in motor traffic accidents."

To the Main Line Kiwanis Club and its allied organizations: Our congratulations on the humanitarian task of selling the idea of safety to Main Line motorists, and a pledge of our support in every way possible.

Shreds & Patches

Genealogical Algebra

On July 13, 1793, a son was born to parents who, though young themselves, had already fixed their personal habits and viewpoints in accordance with the stern standards of their time and their region. He was their first-born, and they named him Igal. He proved to be rather light-minded, more fond of books than of plowing, peripatetic schoolmaster and a wanderer. He probably consumed alcoholic beverages in greater quantity and variety than was considered wise, even in that time which was long before anyone had proclaimed that liquor and morals were in any way related. Instinctively adverse to accepting the fetters of life, Igal delayed marriage until he had become an "old bachelor" of 26 years, and even at that ripe age and beyond, he was never a stable source of support to his wife, Hannah Whitney, and their three children. He would leave the house, as on some casual errand, and possibly not return for many months. During one such absence he walked several hundred miles in order to behold Niagara Falls. He died at what was in his family the early age of 56, and the hard-working son who survived him for half a century did not retain nor pass on to his descendants a favorable estimate of his father. Igal was a vagrant and, as blood will tell, became in the course of a century great-grandfather of The Vagrant. All of which is written merely to indicate that, regardless of the present literary aspects of his vocation and in spite of the two quite sedentary generations which intervened, The Vagrant is to the manner born. Also, if there are any persons who have wondered who The Vagrant actually is, (a vain expectation on his part, no doubt) this personal information may be helpful to them in identifying him. Let "X" equal The Vagrant, as they say in high school algebra, and "y" equal Igal who is a known quantity then "Y-2" should equal "X" and there you have him fully and inescapably identified.

Tainted Blood

Probably The Vagrant early revealed the Igal taint in his blood, for by his tenth year it had become an established custom in the family that to him should be given the few relics of Igal which had been handed down—a pair of spectacles with side pieces that could be slid in and out, and his Bible which revealed less signs of active use than did the shiny silver spectacles in their dented metal case. But in that Bible, Igal returning from his wanderings now and then, had kept a fairly accurate family record on the pages provided therefor by the Philadelphia printers who published it in 1812. Also he had slipped into its pages various letters and other papers, like the school reports indicating the passable proficiency of his young son, Ordello. All of which causes that old Bible to become, in this remote time, a prime and reliable source of genealogical dates and means not otherwise available. Hence it happens that The Vagrant receives requests, sometimes from distant relatives and at others from unknown genealogists, for information from the records which the old Bible still preserves. Usually The Vagrant complies and sometimes, when Igal's blood is in the ascendancy, he swishes his desk clean in one sweep toward the waste basket, puts on his hat and departs leaving undone many more important and dutiful matters than supplying the answer to the question of "Whom did Hannah Whitney's older sister marry?"

Miraculous Answer

What Igals or worse there may have been precariously poised in La Vagranite's family tree have never been by her disclosed. It seems likely that her blood strain is pure and undefiled, straight down from Father Adam, with no demises on gallow's trees and no births outside the bonds of holy matrimony. It might be so, for all that The Vagrant can conjecture from her conversation and conduct. Possibly some impostor pope, back in the Dark Ages, may have participated in the creation of one strain in her family line, for it is true that at times she reveals and asserts a certain personal infallibility which authoritatively overpowers The Vagrant and compels him to follow the paths of rectitude and duty while her stern eye is on him. It was such an incident which caused The Vagrant, at her command, to get down Igal's Bible the other night in order to answer some long neglected inquiry. Like all old Bibles, this one will miraculously supply the answer to any question whatsoever. Recalling that quality of the book, and also the necessary formula for making it work, The Vagrant solemnly opened it and the Bible gave him as its answer Proverbs XX:13, "Love not sleep,

The Literary Inquest

Conducted by Richard Powell

If you have never had the experience of hearing a book say: "You stubborn, opinionated reviewers make me sick. Whoever appointed you as our spokesman? I dare you to give some book a chance to speak for itself!" you may possibly not understand our irritation. Anyway, we have decided to see if a book can do as well for itself as we can. You there, in the rose and white jacket, take the stand.

Q—Name, please?

A—"Dear Prue's Husband and Other People."

Q—Your parent was rather lavish. His name?

A—Professor Joseph J. Reilly.

Q—Published

A—Yes.

Q—I mean when, idiot!

A—Then why don't you say so? Your English is pretty poor, even for a review. August 16, by Macmillan.

Q—And price?

A—Must we be mercenary? Two dollars.

Q—Are you worth it?

A—Certainly. Where else could you find sixteen essays on such literary figures as Galworthy, Cardinal Newman, Belloc, Horace Walpole, Sir Richard Steele...

Q—Quite enough, thanks. Can I depend on you to be truthful?

A—Well, we books can't lie as convincingly as you men do. Our thoughts are only hidden by our covers.

Q—Why would I benefit if I read you?

A—You'd add to your stock of information and improve your English, both of which need it. Incidentally, if you have a certain amount of intelligence you might even be entertained.

Q—Can you recommend all of your essays equally?

A—The character studies are the best, for instance: "Bozzy, the man who made Johnson," and "A Celtic Poet." On one of the others Professor Reilly becomes a bit too pedantic and erudite, perhaps to impress his colleagues.

Q—What is your aim in life?

A—I should like to be a best seller. But most people, I suppose, will shy away from me for fear of being educated. The best I can expect is to stir up a mild literary controversy. And some people will buy me just to fill up their shelves.

Q—Does that fate depress you?

A—Well, you must admit that I would add a certain tone to a library. But imagine my humiliation when some one discovers me there with my pages uncut! Would... would you do me a favor? (Whisper.)

Q—You needn't be so sensitive about it. Certainly I don't mind cutting your pages for you. There you are.

A—A-ah! That makes me feel ever so much better. My dear friend, may you never split an infinitive!

"Night Out," by Rupert Croft-Cooke. (Dial Press, $2. Pub. July 11.) This is a novel of Futility. The central character makes futile attempts to express his uninteresting yearnings, the English post-war generation (will writers never have done persecuting it?) searches uselessly for the Meaning of Things, and the author tries in vain to be entertaining. There is one satisfactory thing about the book; the round, black period that ends the final sentence.

With the five hundred pounds left to him by a relative, Justus Willis, lest thou come to poverty; open thy eyes and thou shalt be satisfied with bread," which The Vagrant considered to be a remarkably intelligent and alert answer, considering that Bible's age and history, to his question which, of course, had been, "What shall a man do to be saved—in times like these?" To him the word "bread" was used literally and implied that the more simple and reduced standard of living which is now necessary could be satisfactory and sufficient. La Vagranite, however, said that it was a delightful answer because "bread" did not mean literally a wheaten loaf, but the birds, the flowers, the skies and all the natural beauties and even poetry, which is now available to anyone who will merely open his eyes to read it. So there they were, the big, brown Bible open between them, and at cross purposes as to what it meant. Surely it is easy to see why primitive Christianity was soon displaced by an overhead system of deacons, priests, bishops, powers and thrones all engaged in telling good and earnest people exactly what the Bible does mean, and that, on the whole, it is better for ordinary men and women to leave it alone.

THE VAGRANT.

London haberdashery clerk, is able to abandon his stifling existence. His girl declines to go will-o-the-wisp with him, and Justus goes alone. Luxury, religion, travel and sex pass in review before this young Midas during one week-end. Each in turn proves disappointing.

Little can be said for the author's style. His patches of ornate imagery contrast oddly with the general flatness of the rest. Were it not pathetic, it would be laughable to note how Mr. Croft-Cooke gives hostages to failure. First he selects disillusion as his theme—a subject that requires a great novelist and delicate craftsmanship. Secondly, he gives his main character only two days completely to be disillusioned—when every other study of disillusion from the parable of the Prodigal Son down to "An American Tragedy" deals in terms of years. Yet Croft-Cooke rushes in where a Theodore Dreiser would fear to tread, and crushes his subject under flat, obvious feet.

Hearsay Evidence

French authors may take a place at the top of American best seller lists for the first time in many years this fall. "Night Flight," by Antoine de St. Exupery, and "Saint Saturnin" have been selected jointly by the Book-of-the-Month Club. Then Ernest Dimmet's "What We Live By" is already among the ten best sellers here. Farar and Rinehart are giving Colette's light, sophisticated novels much publicity. Andre Maurois comes out with a change from his biographies in a novel, "The Family Circle." Covici-Friede are importing the works of Georges Sims, who is the French Edgar Wallace, with 200 mystery stories published. He is not yet thirty years of age. And, incidentally, the American Julian Green, whose "The Strange River" will be out soon, writes all his books in French.

Hedgerow to Give Premiere of New Play September 3

The Hedgerow Theatre at Rose Valley has in preparation "A Place in the World," Barrett H. Clark's and Winifred Katzin's translation of Carl Sternheim's farce, which enjoyed considerable success in Germany as "Der Snob." It will have its American premiere next Saturday evening, September 3rd, and its second performance Monday evening, September 5th. Sternheim's play, a satire on social climbing, is laid in prewar Germany and deals with the effort of one Christian Maske to "arrive." Christian will be played by Ferd Nofer, his fiancée and mistress by Hancey Castle and Miriam Phillips, respectively, and the other characters by Harry Sheppard, Carl Reukauff, Mabel Sheppard, Catherine Rieser, and Edward Gable.

For Monday evening, August 29th, Hedgerow has selected Lennox Robinson's comedy of Irish family life, "The Whiteheaded Boy."

Chekhov's "The Sea Gull," which last April opened Hedgerow's ninth year, will be seen Tuesday evening, and the latest addition to the Hedgerow repertory, "Spring Song," by Bella Spewack, who with her husband is also responsible for two other Hedgerow successes, "Sweeney" and "Solitaire Man," will be shown on Wednesday evening.

"Happy Ending," Perry Ivins' comedy of "life, letters and what have you?" will be seen on Thursday evening. Friday's show is "The Emperor Jones," by Eugene O'Neill, with Arthur Rich in the title role and Jasper Deeter as the cockney trader.

Tonight's performance is St. John Ervine's "The Ship," an English play about a family of ship-builders. Tomorrow night the popular Jewish-East Side play, "Spring Song," by Bella Spewack, will be performed.

Reaches Semi-Finals

Miss Coralie Rembrandt Peale, of the Cynwyd Club, reached the semi-finals in the consolation singles of the Delaware County Women's tennis championships at the Idle Hour Club. She was eliminated last Saturday by Marion Blew in a three-set match by the score of 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Local Movies

Requested Films to be Revived at Narberth

This week-end's attraction at the Narberth Theatre is "Week-end Marriage," starring Loretta Young, Norman Foster and George Brent. Laurel and Hardy in "Any Old Port" are an added feature. Saturday's matinee will show Tom Mix in "Destry Rides Again" and "Last of the Mohicans."

In connection with the theatre's revival of best films requested by patrons, the following will be shown: Monday, Norma Shearer and Marie Dressler in "Let Us Be Gay;" Tuesday, Lon Chaney in "Phantom of the Opera," in sound; Wednesday, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "The Guardsman;" Thursday, Will Rogers in "The Connecticut Yankee;" Friday, John Gilbert and Renee Adoree in a sound version of "The Big Parade;" and Saturday, Wheeler and Woolsey in "The Cuckoos."

Delegate to Ahepa

Marios Chios, Narberth, will represent the Philadelphia district at the tenth annual national convention of the Ahepa, to be held at Baltimore August 28 to September 4. Mr. Chios, who is proprietor of the Borough's Arcadia Restaurant, is past president of Spartan Chapter, No. 26, of the Order, whose full name is American Hellenic Education Progressive Association.

ECLIPSE DUE AUGUST 31

eclipse. Every planet and moon within the solar system casts its shadow out into space, and when the Sun and two of these bodies are in a direct line with each other, one being within the limits of the cone of shadow cast by the central body, an eclipse occurs; in other words, the Sun's light is cut off by the central body. Thus, in the present instance, the Moon comes directly between the Earth and the Sun, and light from the latter casts the shadow of the Moon over a portion of the Earth. Similarly when the Earth comes between the Sun and the Moon, in a direct line, the shadow of the Earth engulfs the Moon, that is, eclipses it.

"To arrive at a better understanding of these phenomena, it is well to bear in mind certain fundamental facts, as follows. Distance of Sun, 93,000,000 miles; average distance of the Moon 240,000 miles. Sun's diameter 866,000 miles; Moon 2,160 miles; Earth 8,000 miles. The orbit of the Moon (its motion around the Earth) is inclined to the orbit of the Earth (its motion around the Sun) at a small angle, consequently eclipses occur only when their orbits cross each other at or near what are called the nodes. The minimum number of eclipses each year is two, the maximum seven.

"Now, it happens that the ratio of the sizes and distances of the Moon and the Sun are such that each appears to be of about the same size in the sky, while the distance of the Moon is such that only the tip of the shadow cone touches the earth. The nearer the Moon is to the Earth the wider the shadow band, and sometimes it is just far enough away at the occurrence of an eclipse to miss the Earth entirely, under which circumstances the Moon appears slightly smaller than the Sun. The eclipse is then called annular, from the Latin annulus, a ring, and when the three bodies are so positioned a ring of the Sun's light is visible momentarily.

"In the coming eclipse the Moon's shadow will move from northwest to southeast, in a curve extending from beyond the Hudson Bay region, down through eastern Canada, Vermont, New Hampshire, Maine, and a small portion of northeast Massachusetts, far out into the Atlantic Ocean. This band of shadow is roughly 100 miles in width, and in that portion only will the eclipse be total; while the eclipse will be partially seen on each side of the path of the shadow

Good dahlia weather.

A good time to plan to make new lawns.

Oh, that crab grass!

"Every six pounds of carbon in existing plants has withdrawn twenty-four pounds of carbonic acid gas from the atmosphere, and replaced it with sixteen pounds of oxygen gas, occupying the same bulk." This quotation from The Botanical Textbook by Asa Gray (1845) should give us something to think about. Great trees taking carbonic acid gas from the air, exhausted by men and animals, and throwing off oxygen, which men and animals must have, are more than "just trees." If it were only for the moisture that these same trees add to the atmosphere we breathe every day they would be more than necessary to our life. Let us think more about our friends the trees and learn to know them better.

Abelia Cinensis Grandiflora is a shrub worth knowing. Arching branches, dainty pale pink flowers from late summer until frost, pretty glossy leaves that stay on most of the winter, abelia is most satisfactory. In exposed situations it is sometimes partially killed but a light pruning in spring will help it to branch out better than ever—in fact, it is really better for spring pruning.

Common names mean little. Here is asclepias tuberosa, a beautiful plant, but because it is commonly called butterfly weed it is classed with the pestiferous dandelion. Buddleia davidi magnifica is called butterfly shrub, or summer lilac, and is weedy in habit, seeding and butting in where it is not wanted—but it is not called a weed. What's in a name?

In our column of January 22nd we said, "The excessive wetness of July and the extreme dryness of September, 1931, made a favorable condition for crab grass. This pest is a hardy annual (very hardy) and it is more than likely that the seeds of 1931 will do well in 1932." In the column of May 6th we said, "Those nice pointed blades that seem so prolific in bare spots are seedlings of crab grass. Clean them out." On August 12th we said, "One method of control of crab grass is to root it out before seeding." The seeding time for crab grass is in late August and September. Not trying to say, "I told you so," but crab grass is a real pest.

Japanese beetles not so plentiful—thank goodness. The prospects are that the beetles will have gone from this immediate vicinity within the next few years. Then we may have our roses, mountain ash, altheas, mallows, hollyhocks, fruit trees and all the rest of the list—with some satisfaction. Meanwhile we must use stomach poisons—the new "non-poisonous to pets and humans" kind is a blessing—setting traps around the edges of the property and the grub-proofing of sunny lawns.

September and October for planting perennials, November for planting hardy bulbs, October for planting shrubs and roses. Lots of work for gardeners during the fall season.

FILE APPEAL TO AWARD

Court Told Devon Fireworks Blast Victim Illegally Employed

An appeal was filed Monday in Chester County Court, West Chester, for the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, from an award made to the parents of one of the victims of the Devon fireworks explosion on April 3, 1930. A similar appeal in the case was filed in the office of the Prothonotary last week.

It is set forth in the appeal that the Workmen's Compensation Board erred in awarding damages to Antonio and Sallie Mastorano, of Plymouth, parents of Archangelo Mastorano, who was instantly killed in the blast. The insurance fund attorney pointed out that Archangelo was a minor, and therefore was illegally employed and hence no compensation could be allowed.

Colonel and Mrs. Samuel P. Wetherill, Jr., of "Spritewood," Haverford, were recent week-end guests at Lenape Village, a Pocono camp for adults.

ECLIPSE DUE AUGUST 31

—in our locality rather more than 90 per cent.

"Only those within the path of totality will be able to see the wonderful corona, which makes its appearance when the light of the Sun is completely cut off by the Moon. Again we must have recourse to further fundamental facts, in order to understand what happens. The Sun's light comes mainly from an atmospheric envelope known as the photosphere (sphere of light), which is about 3,000 miles deep, surrounding which is a much shallower envelope named the chromosphere (sphere of color), consisting largely of glowing hydrogen gas. Beyond this, again, extends a faintly luminous region called the corona—so faint that it can only be seen when the remaining light of the Sun is cut off, or eclipsed by the Moon. It is the grandest sight that mortal eyes can behold within the solar system, and one worth traveling thousands of miles to witness.

"It should be remembered that, before and after totality, the eyes must be protected by some sort of dark screen. In the absence of a dark glass a well smoked glass will answer; better yet a light struck photographic plate or film which has been developed in the usual way. A small telescope, having an eyepiece protected with a dark glass cap, answers admirably, but the best thing with which to observe the corona itself is a pair of prismatic binoculars, having a field of view large enough to grasp the entirety of the corona. With such a glass the corona is a most magnificent spectacle, exceeding in glory all possibility of description.

"The duration of totality in the center of the shadow band is rather more than a minute and a half, and it may be photographed with a kodak or other camera, supported on a tripod, and allowing an exposure of about five seconds.

"The partial eclipse will begin about 3:23 P. M., reach a maximum at about 4:34, and end at about 5:40 P. M. These figures are Daylight Saving Time and represent the city of Philadelphia, but the difference for localities on the Main Line will be very slight."

Mrs. R. J. Hamilton Member of Committee on Safety

Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, of Ardmore, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and a member of the Governor's Committee on Street and Highway Safety, this week asked motorists interested in the safety of themselves and others to stop and consider the following questions:

"DO YOU KNOW THIS?

"That pedestrians rarely face traffic when walking along our highways where there are no walks?

"That the stop signs placed in many sections of the town are frequently unobserved?

"That occasionally the safety lights are not observed?

"That pedestrians watch their chances to flit with death by rushing across the street against the red light?

"That there is a law preventing automobiles from traveling more than 20 miles an hour in the built-up sections? This is not always observed.

"That drivers fail to give proper hand signals, especially in making left hand turns?

"That cut-outs are used constantly in residential sections?

"That horns are blown needlessly? That courtesy is not always observed, as an impatient tooting of horns follows the turning on of a green light?

"That frequently pedestrians start to cross the street and become confused and run back and forth?

"That in the business section people frequently cross in the middle of a block and, as this is the Lincoln Highway and the travel is constant, the danger is great?"

Miss Helen Shore to Wed

Charles Harvey Sept. 10

The marriage of Miss Helen Dorothy Shore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Everett Shore, of Bryn Mawr, and Mr. Charles Lee Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Harvey, of Chestnut Hill, will take place on Saturday, September 10, at half after 6 in the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. The Reverend Dr. Andrew Mutch will officiate.

Mrs. H. Everett Shore, Jr., a sister-in-law of the bride will be the matron of honor, while Miss Virginia Vanderbeck, of Cynwyd will be the maid of honor.

Mr. Norman Reeves, of Caldwell, N. J., will act as best man.

THE FIRESIDE

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bruce Mumma and daughters, Margaret and Helen, of Wynnewood, will leave on Sunday for Portland, Maine, where they plan to see the solar eclipse on August 31. Mr. George Mumma has returned home after spending ten days in Harrisburg.

Philadelphia Electric Drops Two Offices

Two branches of the Philadelphia Electric Company on the Main Line will be abandoned next Wednesday, the company has announced. One is located at 261 Montgomery avenue, Cynwyd; the other at 871 Lancaster avenue, Bryn Mawr. Lack of business at these offices was given as the reason.

"The dropping of the offices," said E. W. Ehmann, manager, this week, "follows a study of more than a year in which we found that the actual customer contacts in these offices was disappointing. Increased taxes have caused the company's expenses to go up, and this is one way to economize."

The building at Cynwyd is owned by the company; that at Bryn Mawr is rented. Offices will be maintained at Ardmore, Wayne and Upper Darby.

COACHING SCHOOL

Prospective Notre Dame Player Enrolls at Villanova

Believing that it is well to be grounded in the fundamentals of the Notre Dame system before entering there this fall, William Macaleer, former Germantown High halfback, has enrolled at the Villanova Coaching School, which opened here on Wednesday and closes September 3rd. This is one of the first cases on record of a school player attending a coaching school before he went to college.

With Harry Stuhldreher, former Notre Dame quarterback of the famed "Four Horsemen" backfield, co-coaching with Dick Hanley, head coach at Northwestern, and Dr. H. C. Carlson, of Pitt, young Macaleer's father was anxious to have the boy well schooled in the system made nationally successful by the late Knute Rockne.

Cynwyd Pair Victors

Harold Custer and Norman Shidle, of the Cynwyd Club, won the doubles championship of the Englewood Tennis Club at Beach Haven last Saturday by defeating Donald Jones, of Swarthmore, and William Condon, of Hilltop Courts, in the final by the score of 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Jones won the singles finals, defeating Condon, 8-6, 6-2, 8-6.

Health Officials on Guard Against Paralysis

Largest Number of Cases Was 2,155 in 1916 State Dept. Says

Infantile paralysis, which is appearing in the southeastern section of the State in increasing measure, had its highest record since the State Department of Health was organized, in the year 1916, when 2,155 cases were reported to the Bureau of Communicable Diseases, State Health Department. The bulk of these occurred in July, August and September of that year. Infantile paralysis usually is at its highest point during the hot months.

Five years earlier, in 1910, the malady reached another "high" of 1,100 cases, about half the previous record. In 1917 and 1918 it was again quite active, but the incidence was only about one-fourth the record year of 1916—remaining at 450 cases for 1917 and 300 cases for 1918.

Again in 1927 the count mounted to 450, and renewed activity on the part of the disease during 1931 ran the figures up to about 300 cases. While there are many cases being reported from Philadelphia and environs, it is not thought at the present time, that the current year will record as many cases as 1931.

Infantile paralysis seems to come with recurrent waves, but it is not shown that the same number of years elapse between each wave. So little has been understood by the public as to the cause of this malady, and its mode of transmission from person to person, and so terrible are the results it leaves in its wake, that the very mention of the name inspires dread and fear on the part of the parents, when it enters a home.

An enormous amount of research work has been done on this disease, and it has been productive of much valuable information, which may be used as a guide in the medical care of a person afflicted with the malady. The disease is reportable and subject to rigid quarantine, to prevent, so far as possible, its spread.

Man Reported Missing

On Sunday Mrs. Frank Fasick, of Garrett Hill, requested Radnor Township police to search for her husband, who had been missing from home since August 15. He was last seen at Bryn Mawr Post Office. The missing man is 5 feet 10½ inches in height, has blue eyes and auburn hair. He was dressed in a brown suit, brown shirt and shoes, and was carrying a box of neckties, which he was selling.

Anne Coburn New Head of Sayward School for Girls

A long career in education will close this September when Miss S. Janet Sayward, founder of Miss Sayward's School for Girls at Overbrook, turns over her duties as principal to Miss Anne Cutter Coburn, and retires from the field of teaching.

During the 40 years since she founded this girls' school, Miss Sayward has been active in its administration. Originally started as a primary and grammar school, the institution has grown into one comprising all grades through high school, college preparatory, and secretarial and post-graduate courses.

Miss Sayward was graduated from normal school in Salem, Mass.; afterwards she taught in the public schools of Maine and was later academic head of the Parkhurst-Cenas School, Baltimore. In 1892 she founded the Sayward School in Overbrook.

Miss Coburn, who will become principal with the opening of the school September 28, has been associate principal for the last three years.

She is a graduate of Smith College, with degrees from Radcliffe and the University of Pennsylvania. Her teaching career has included instructorships in the MacDuffie School, Springfield, Mass.; Miss Niel's School, Boston; the Lesley School, Cambridge, Mass., and work in the Massachusetts Department of Education.

Ump's Decision Riles

Brookline Players

what it should be and if the fans were "boiling," so was Coffey.

Finally Umpire Wally Clark, at first base, angrily demanded that each dugout be cleaned of every man not connected with the clubs, then made it his business to eject the three scribes as well. The reporter in Brookline's dugout willingly left the hot spot, but the others demanded their rights as gentlemen of the press, and after much wrangling were the victors.

Needless to say, play was at fever pitch from then to the end and the Nunanmen fought to the bitter fade-out in a futile effort to snatch victory out of the fire.

In all fairness to the Brookline defeat it must be mentioned that three stars were out of the line-up and Dick Kearney was forced to the bench in the second frame when he was struck on the finger with a pitched ball.

However, the Davismen were on their toes, scoring two runs in the first inning when Harry Francis singled to center and reached third on Eddie Banes' error. Walt MacGregor tapped to first but Jimmy Connor muffed the sphere and the run was across. Barney Slaughter's screaming triple to center accounted for run No. 2.

The second brace of runs were added in the third on MacGregor's pass and singles by Charley Carroll and Slaughter, then the final one in the fourth when Harry Francis singled after Harry King had been put on as a runner on Freddy Wood's error at shortstop, where he was subbing for the injured Kearney.

Brookline threatened to do damage in the third when Frank Sinclair popped a floater over shortstop and Pete Leuthe followed with a bingle to right, but the Davismen nipped the rally in the bud.

Then in the fifth the lone two points for the visitors were doublechecked on singles by Ray McCauley and Bobby Sinclair and Wood's three-bagger.

Gene Davis was using for the first time a righthander named Frank Coleman, who we understand, is a Bartram Artisans' star. In his debut in Main Line League competition young Coleman was rather tight in the pinches, keeping the enemy hits well scattered. He gave up nine safeties, one more than Narberth could get off Ray McCauley, but was not troubled when the going was rough. A fast ball and sharp hook seem to be his idea of being successful on the mound.

Harry Francis took hitting honors for Narberth with three for the day, while Slaughter was next best with two. Gilfillan's lone blow was for three bases.

For Brookline, Redhead Freddy Wood, with a triple and two singles, was the big gun, while Gorman played a bang-up game at the keystone.

Howdy Powell scooped up everything which came his way for the victorious home club, as he offered his usual steady performance.

Certified Water . . from pedigreed streams

The water you drink should be pure at its very source. It should come only from streams that are away out in the country—free from contamination that makes water unsafe, impure. You don't want reformed water! That's why the Philadelphia Suburban Water Company has carefully selected streams that produce water that is palatable and safe to drink. It costs us more to do this because it requires more piping, pumping, inspection and care, to give you pure water that is always at your service, at the same pressure, 24 hours a day. That's why you always get all the water you want . . . when you want it.

Bryn Mawr Couple Hurt When Car Goes Into Ditch

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Weatherby, 234 Bryn Mawr avenue, Bryn Mawr, were injured when their motor car went into a ditch on the Lincoln Highway near City Line early Wednesday.

They were returning from New York in their car driven by Patrick O'Neil, 29, their chauffeur. They were passing a truck when their bumper locked against it, swerving their car into the ditch.

Mr. Weatherby was treated for cuts on the head and Mrs. Weatherby for injuries on the leg.

Edward Pongier, 32 Baltimore, the truck driver, told police he drove on when he thought no one had been injured.

mound and demonstrated how a dentist SHOULD'N'T WORK. After striving in vain to yank a painful molar, Kinney set off an explosive in Malis' mouth and blew every tooth to the four winds. (We imagine the teeth were substituted for by corn.) All in fun, of course, and the fans left the premises feeling that they had their money's worth both in comedy and in straight baseball.

The visitors boasted uniforms half clown and half the garb of the diamond and also offered painted faces. We might add that they were all they were painted, playing the game to the hilt every minute.

Kinney was the most colorful for the losing combine (both in dress and at bat) with two bingles.
